George Was Flippant.
One of our English residents told this story of the Prince of Wales (now king of England) at a recent dinner: "When George and Edward (the late Duke of Clarence) were making their tour in the navy, on one occasion—sunset or something—George went to the hatchway and called, 'Eddie, come up here and sing "God save your grandmother!"'—Wasp.

Good Reason For It.
He joined the church a week ago; 'twas with repentant face.
Today his heart is filled with woe; today he fell from grace.
He fell from grace, alas, alas! for bitter is the cup.

Adopt a Plan

A definite plan is the foundation of success in saving.
It doesn't make much difference what the plan of saving is, so long as it's systematic. Some people never spend the dimes they get—they put them in a convenient home savings bank.
Some men shave themselves and drop into the bank the money they would have to pay the barber. Others walk to the office and save the carfare.

You can select any plan which suits you. Regularity in your saving is the essential thing.
One dollar opens an account and starts your savings earning interest. BEGIN NOW.

TIES WORTH $26
Cause All-Day Hearing of Case in Superior Court.

The entire session of superior court Wednesday, with Judge Edwin B. Gager on the bench, was occupied with a civil action, that of the suit of M. Eugene Lincoln of this city against Charles T. Crane of Mansfield, involving the sum of $26. The arguments had just been completed when court was adjourned until this (Thursday) morning when Judge Gager will charge the jury sitting on the case.

The action was originally threshed out in a justice court and as no evidence was furnished by the defendant judgment was awarded plaintiff by Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean before the case came up. An appeal was taken to the superior court by the defendant. Attorney George E. Hinman represented the plaintiff and Attorney Samuel B. Harvey the defendant.

Plaintiff's contention was that the defendant took thirty-two switch ties of the value of $26, belonging to plaintiff, and sold the same to the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company and never effected a settlement with plaintiff for them. This was denied by the defendant. The court was well filled with witnesses who testified for both sides.

When the cause is finally settled, someone will be out a considerable sum of money, a number of times the amount of the sum being contested.

BRISSETTE'S CASE
Trial to Begin on Tuesday, November 7—Additional Jurors Drawn.

Wednesday morning, State's Attorney Charles E. Searis of Putnam was in Willimantic in conference with Judge Edwin B. Gager of the superior court in the matter of fixing a date for the trial of Randolph Brissette of New Bozton, charged with murder in the first degree. It was at last decided to take up the trial of the case on Tuesday, November 7, at 10 o'clock.

Early on the opening of court on Wednesday morning, at the request and in the presence of Judge Edwin B. Gager, the clerk of the court, Edgar M. Werner, drew a list of additional jurors for the present term of court. The twelve men who will be called upon to pass on the Brissette case will be chosen from the regular panel and additional list of jurors.

Those drawn Wednesday morning were: Windham—W. J. Sweeney, Henry E. Anthony, Robert H. Fenton, William C. Backus, L. Edwin Backus, James M. Smith, James Johnson, Frank M. Lincoln.

Putnam—Charles W. Chase, Lewis F. Battey, Albert C. Luke, Andrew W. Barber, Isaac Champeau, Herman G. Carver.

Brooklyn—Stephen H. Oatley, Samuel Cooper, George Nuttall, Elliott E. Allen.

ALLEGES FRAUD.
Gilbert H. Storrs of Mansfield Sues Alfred Oden for $5,000 in Connection with Oden Battery Slump.

Alfred Oden of Mansfield Center was served with papers Tuesday in an action instituted by Gilbert H. Storrs of Mansfield. The writ that was served by Deputy Sheriff Phelps of Groton, claims $5,000 damages, and property owned by Oden to the value of $5,000 was attached. The case is returnable to the superior court for Tolland county on the first Tuesday of November, and will in all probability be tried in Rockville at the December term.

It is claimed by Mr. Storrs in the writ that in December, 1909, Oden repeatedly endeavored to induce Storrs to purchase stock in the Oden Battery company, the predecessor of the Argus Battery company of this city, which is now in the hands of a receiver. It is further alleged that Oden represented to Storrs that the company was a prosperous one, that the stock was valuable and that if Storrs would invest $5,000 the money would be paid into the treasury of the company and would be used by the company in its business. It is further claimed that Oden agreed to give his personal attention to the management of the business and to take care of its finances. All of the above representations, it is alleged, were made to Edgar N. Storrs with the request that he be presented to Gilbert H. Storrs, plaintiff, in order to induce him to purchase the stock. As a result, it is claimed, he was induced to purchase the stock and paid what Oden asked for same. The writ claims that all the statements and representations made were false and fraudulent and that the money obtained was not put into the company's treasury. The plaintiff is represented by ex-Attorney General Charles Phelps of Rockville and William A. King of this city.

WEDDING.
Fournier-Dansereau.
Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church Miss Mayme A. Dansereau of this city and Alfred A. Fournier, formerly of Holyoke, Mass., were married by Rev. J. J. Papillon. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends. Miss Olive Dansereau of Meriden, formerly of this city, was bridesmaid, and Peter Dansereau, a cousin of the bride, was best man.

The bride was attired in a white embroidered gown and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Her traveling dress was blue messaline. The bridesmaid wore pink silk mulle and carried pink carnations. The bride received a large number of handsome gifts. Following a short wedding tour through New York state, Mr. and Mrs. Fournier will make their home in this city.

West Willington Man Buys Store.
Tuesday William H. King of North Windham sold his store to Anthony Hansen of West Willington, who assumed possession Wednesday forenoon. Up to a short time ago Mr. Hansen was associated with his brother, H. A. Hansen, Jr., in the grocery business at West Willington.

Mr. King has run the general store in North Windham for about three years. He said Wednesday that he had not decided what he would do in the future. He is the postmaster at North Windham and will retain that office until his successor is appointed.

Utilities Commission Visits Town.
Wednesday at 10:45 o'clock the special train with the members of the public utilities commission aboard rolled into the local station after a run from Worcester, where the night before was passed. After a few minutes' stop the train ran down to One-once over the Providence division. Those aboard the train were Chief Engineer Elwell, Superintendent Hummel, Train Master Constantine and Assistant Engineer Sterling. The train again pulled into Willimantic a little after 1 o'clock and following the departure of the Central Vermont and the 4:07 express started out on its trip westward.

In Conference with Architect.
Frank Larabee and Thomas J. Kelley, members of the special high school building committee, together with First Selectman Robert E. Mitchell, went to Boston Wednesday to have a conference with the architect, Cooper & Bailey, relative to some matters concerning the new building for which a final settlement with the contractors, the Peck, McWilliams company of Norwich, has not been made.

DARKEST CONNECTICUT.
How Poultny Bigelow is Impressed by General Run-Downness of His Former Home.
Poultny Bigelow, youngest son of Hon. John Bigelow, has been making a tour of this state as far east as the river Thames. In an article in the Independent of New York he writes down his impressions as follows:
What has become of the many beautiful homes that were sprinkled up and down Connecticut a short half century ago? Let us drive up through the weedy roadway of some venerable mansion whose architecture and massive stone steps suggest dignified pedigree. We look in vain for the prosperity promised by the apostles of protectionism. On all sides the eye of a farmer sees evidence that those who live here are people of yesterday, whose interest lies in pillaging the place of whatever can be sold for cash.
The Americans have disappeared like the red man. We only guess at their whereabouts. The census gives us but partial information and the bulletins from Washington publish the triumphs of protectionism and not the disasters to American farmers in New England. To find the children of those whose homes represent the ruins of modern Connecticut, follow me into the slums of New York, Boston, Chicago, or into the hundreds of equally unattractive factory towns that blot the landscape of this otherwise beautiful state. Here are the stars reared by the priests of protectionism and here are the human sacrifices: hundreds of thousands of girls and boys drawn away from the healthy outdoor life of the farm, lured by the precarious wages offered by big stores and factories. Side by side with the contents of the last emigrant ship you will find grandchildren of once notable New England land owners earning a mere subsistence and wondering why turning no longer pays in their native state. The greatest army of typewriters, stenographers, school teachers, shop girls—the dependent class of daily refined, well-dressed but empty handed children of American ancestry—these seldom revisit the old Connecticut homesteads, for they are too proud to let their tears be seen by the present possessors.

On all sides throughout Connecticut the same lament is heard from those who still doggedly seek to live upon the land of their fathers—the cost of living is so high—the cost of labor so prohibitive—the cost of transportation to market so exorbitant—each wonders how long he can stagger under his mortgage or when he shall have to abandon the farm and take day wages in a neighboring factory.

Kept Him Waiting.
The Scotch clergyman who invented the percussion lock for firearms in 1805 had to wait twenty-seven years before it was tested by the British government, thirty-two years before a regiment was armed with it and thirty-four years before it was used in war.

First Woman Legends.
Heathen nations have different legends as to the origin of women. The Japanese believe that she grew on a tree, the Laplanders that she was once a rabbit, the Persians that she fell from the heavens and the Australian natives that she was once a tad.

Too Great a Shock.
Lady—What's become of the other clerk who used to be at this window? Booking Clerk—Oh, he's in a lunatic asylum. Lady—Indeed? Booking Clerk—Yes. One day a woman got a ticket and went away without asking any questions.—London Tit-Bits.
